

New Year's Resolution: "I will be part of the SOLUTION!"

Come and learn how HELP's relationships and comprehensive training can heal communities & grow your business in 2012

You already hold yourself to a high standard. Why not express it to the public by aligning with our program? Becoming HELP Certified means more than other short sale certifications. It is a public commitment of fiduciary and a passion to help get our neighborhoods back on track. If you're ready to set yourself apart in 2012, be a student for a day in order to reignite your passion for serving today's homeowners and home buyers.

Our Power-Packed Course Provides the Tools You Need to Make Yourself a Consumer Resource. Class Includes:

- Updates on all new real estate industry regulations that will impact you and your clients.
- A proven business plan that can dramatically increase your production.
- Tips on how to successfully establish a valuable relationship with a non-profit HUD counseling agency.
- Compelling motivation! You will be challenged, inspired and held accountable!
- Insight as to why some lenders have begun to require professionals be "HELP Certified" in order to qualify for DPA programs.
- Detailed answers to questions about income tax, bankruptcy, and property tax issues, as well as loan modification and short sale programs.

Since 2008, HELP has spearheaded forward-thinking education programs geared towards raising awareness about the importance of financial literacy. As a result, real estate professionals have supported the cause of stabilizing our communities through consumer education.

The HELP Program is Supported by the DRE, California Community College Real Estate Education Center, Local Counties and a variety of Realtor Associations. HELP Founder Chris Sorensen is the Author of the college course "Financial Sense to White Picket Fence". In addition, Mr. Sorensen was a Featured speaker at 2011 NAREB New Orleans Conference, is an NID Trainer as well as a NeighborWorks Approved Trainer.
